UP TO WEDNESDAY.

Robert Young, Rural Dale, O., $3 for Organ.

J. Q. Goss, Belleville, O., $1 for Campaign Organ.

S. Emery, Maumee City, O., $3 for Organ. In his letter, the Brother says: "Our Convention came off last Wednesday. Had a good time of time of it. All of one mind; ready to let party go, and vote for a Maine Law man. The Whigs in this district have been fairly driven into rank. The Democrats relying on their own strength, being the strongest party in this district, nominated an Anti-Maine Law man. There were some Democrats at our Convention who said they had never voted for a Whig, but they must and would this fall. I am satisfied that the Maine Law Candidate for Representative, Mr. SANFORD L. COLLINS, will be elected by a large majority."

The Democracy have nominated an Anti-Maine Law man; and the Whigs have refused to bring out any candidate. But the Maine Law men have nominated John Collins, Esq., who is right on the subject. Yet it is doubtful whether he can be elected."

Three candidates for the Legislature; one Red Nose, who don't think the Maine Law expedient; and one who is a regular Maine Law man. Our Maine Law man is an old Son of Temperance, and the regular Whig nominee. Desperate efforts are being made to defeat his election, and perhaps they will succeed, but we think not."

From the Western Christian Advocate.

Letter from General Cary.

I have just reached home from a fatiguing eastern tour, and my attention is called to a letter from the trustees of the Methodist Episcopal Church in Milford, published in the "Advocate" of Sept. 7th, severely abusing me for a brief editorial in the Organ of the 12th of August. I ask it as a favor, that I may have an opportunity to place myself right before your readers. The article in the Organ reads as follows:

"UNUSUAL.—It is very seldom we find a Methodist church in our country villages closed against temperance meetings. When we do find such a case, there is usually some other cause than a devotion to Methodism. One of these exceptions, we understand, is to be found at Milford. The house is not a remarkably fine one, but it is too holy a place for secular meetings. The prominent members of the Church are busily engaged in supplying the distillery at Milford with corn. We state this fact without intimating that this is the reason for their pious zeal for the purity and sanctity of the place of their Sabbath meditations."

Now, Mr. Editor, this is the article which calls forth a long personal attack upon me by the Trustees of the Church, and this attack is made through one of the most widely-circulated and most reliable religious journals in the United States.

That the statement made in the first two sentences of my article is true, I have abundant reason to know. Every where the Methodist denomination has been leading off in the temperance movements, and they have welcomed me to their pulpits even on the Sabbath. On the last two Sabbaths I occupied three Methodist pulpits at their regular hour of service, and their pastors held up my hands, and cheered my heart. To the everlasting praise of this branch of the Church, be it repeated, that if a Methodist house is closed against temperance meetings, there is some other cause for the strange course than devotion to Methodism.

As to this case, I would state, that when I called at Milford and inquired if I could not get the Methodist church for a meeting, I was answered, "No, the Trustees of the Church refuse to let their house be opened for such meetings." This I can prove by witnesses, if required. The Trustees deny that the house has been closed against temperance meetings. Some of the best citizens of Milford have sent their certificates voluntarily, that my assertion was true in every particular. The Trustees, in their communication, do not deny that the prominent members of the Church furnish corn for the distillery; consequently, proofs of the fact are not required from me. It is false that I have ever attempted to "defame the character of any religious society," to promote the cause I advocate. I am not surprised that the Messrs. Gatch and others feel tenderly upon this subject, and I can not relieve them.

It is worthy of remark, that this "society," of Milford, is the only one in the United States which has ever assailed me, or endeavored to discredit me, or injure my standing with the Methodist denomination. Their efforts will be unavailing, for the dear brethren in Christ, among the Methodists, know me too well to suffer me to be destroyed by the friends of distilleries, in or out of their Church.

I could say more, but I have a more important work on my hands than vindicating myself from such ridiculous charges, and, but for the fact that the communication was in the "Advocate," I should not have deemed it worthy of my notice.

Yours, for God and humanity,

S. F. CARY.

For the Organ.

BRO. CLARK:—The following Preamble and Resolutions were unanimously adopted by the Quarterly Meeting Conference of the M. E. Church of Summerfield Circuit, Pittsburgh Conference.

WHEREAS, We believe that the use of and traffic in intoxicating drinks as a beverage, is very injurious to the morals of our country, as well as a direct hindrance to the advancement of the principles of Christianity; therefore be it

Resolved, That the present crisis in the temperance cause in the State of Ohio, demands of us as Christians, that we carry this subject conscientiously to the polls.

Resolved, That we feel it to be our duty to our State, to our families and friends, and to our God, to vote for no man for Governor, Lieut. Governor, or for either branch of the Legislature, who is not pledged to sustain and vote for a law similar in its essential features to the Maine Liquor Law.

Resolved, That a copy of the foregoing Preamble and Resolution be sent to the "Pittsburgh Christian Advocate," "Ohio Organ," and our country papers, for publication.

C. HARE, Sec'y.

From Washington.

[Special Dispatch to the New York Daily Times.]

WASHINGTON, Monday, Sept. 19.

It is now said, with confidence, that John Y. Mason, of Virginia, has been appointed for France, and ex-Senator Allen, of Ohio, for the China mission.

Messrs. Burr, O'Connor and O'Sullivan, are here. O'Connor had an interview with the President to-day, and offered, in view of the harmonious condition of the party in New York, to return his commission. The President was kind, and declined receiving it.

Mr. O'Sullivan would exceedingly like the Sub-Treasury; but, alas! Mr. Dix is doomed to remain on this side of the Atlantic.

IMPORTANT TO COUNTRY MERCHANTS Visiting Cincinnati. THE OLD CUTS VETOED; AND NEW DESIGNS IN THE ASCENDANT.

As every MERCHANT from the Country buying Goods in this market will probably want PRINTING of some description done, they are advised to first visit the
GREAT BEN FRANKLIN
Mammoth Steam Book and Job
Printing House,
Corner Pearl and Walnut streets.

The Proprietor having recently procured NEW AND APPROPRIATE DESIGNS for

COUNTRY STORE BILLS,
IN THE MOST ATTRACTIVE STYLES, are now prepared to execute for Merchants from every section of the country every description of Printing, from a small Card to a most splendid Illustrated Show Bill.

The illustrations being entirely original (engraved expressly for this Office.)
Arrest the attention of purchasers, making customers where all other means have failed.

The following description of some of the new designs got up this season for Store Bills, is given for the information of Country Merchants:

THE CRYSTAL PALACE.

Being a large and correct representation of the immense glass building in which the World's Fair is now being held. Besides the curiosity it will excite, it makes an admirable appearance on a poster. Now here is a chance to show the World's Fair to such of your customers as cannot afford time and money to visit it.

THE LOCOMOTIVE.

Another good picture, illustrating the progress of the age, where railroads do not exist, or where there is one about opening—a better picture could not be obtained for a poster. The cars are attached to the locomotive and filled with goods, they are booming gracefully along.

THE RUSH.

This is a view of a store, which has just received a new lot of goods. The rush of customers is tremendous, and somewhat laughable.

THE TRAIN OF CARS.

This is an elegant representation of a freight train descending a grade, and entering a village. Piles of goods can be seen on each car, all properly marked, of course, for the store. The people are out en masse and waiting its arrival.

THE FACES.

Two very expressive countenances, one indicating joy, the other sorrow. That is, one has got a bargain—the other not. They are of a large size.

MAIN STREET.

This is a picture which has elicited much admiration. It is a view of the main street of a Western village, and embraces all the progressive features of the day and of the Western character. On the foreground is a row of stores, one of which is in "full blast," with every appearance of thrift and prosperity. Over the door is a sign, on which we can print the name of any of our patrons. The store adjoining is closed up—shut up as tight as a Sheriff with his posse could make it—and its sign turned upside down. Nearby a farmer, who has just come to town with a load of hay, is listening to a merchant, who tells him why one store is closed, and the other apparently so prosperous. In the distance, through an archway, the locomotive is snorting along, pulling with ease a long train of goods for the successful store. The people—men, women and children—warned of its approach by the shrill steam whistle, are rushing to the store, that they may be there to have the "first choice" from the new goods. The scene is exciting, and will excite attention wherever posted.

THE STORE.

This is a view of a country store, which has just received a fresh lot of goods. Purchasers are crowding into it in a manner that would be death to fat people. On the outskirts of the crowd several of the "fortunates," who have been in, purchased, and come out unscathed bodily, are displaying their purchases, and delectating on their cheapness to a wondering group, who look as much astonished as did the savages when they first saw Christopher Columbus. Not the least interesting fellow in the crowd is a farmer, who is coming down street at full speed in a wagon, yelling "Make way for me! I have come fifty miles to get these cheap goods! Make way!" He appears bound to "go it," regardless of consequences.

HAVE YOU SEEN THE ELEPHANT?

Is a phrase that will never wear out, so long as there are "green ones" in the world, and that no one may be taken in by the enquiry, we have prepared to furnish our patrons with Elephants by the wholesale. And our animals are not lazy ones either, but great big fellows, capable of carrying goods enough to fill a store. Come and see our Elephant, and just look at the goods upon his back, and we warrant that you like him at once. This is a large picture, and we know of none which would be more attractive.
